

It's your body. It should also be your choice about how you're treated.

This campaign is giving you the vote on the development of a new treatment for breast and other women's cancers. You can be involved, and your vote will count. "I made a difference. Because of me ... and people like me. I made the difference. Because I care."

The therapy I'm backing has the potential to treat breast cancer. It could significantly reduce the need for surgery, chemotherapy and radiotherapy for half of all breast cancer patients. Just one treatment should be enough to kill the cancer.

It's called PDT - Photodynamic Therapy. It's used now for skin cancer, mouth and early lung cancers, bile duct, prostate and even vulval and penile cancer. Perhaps you never knew PDT existed? There are trials now for pancreatic cancer.

PDT is based around light sensitive drugs - chlorophylls (one is extracted from deep ocean seaweed). It is activated in the cancer with a few seconds of light that destroys the tumour.

There are also trials that need funding for lung cancer, pancreatic, bowel, bone, throat and brain cancers. In every case, the side-effects are slight compared to chemo and radiotherapy. It is a much more 'natural' way to destroy cancer tumours.

If we reach the £3m target - perhaps with Government and other charity support - any extra money will be used for PDT for vulval and cervical cancer. Maybe also as an alternative for hysterectomy operations. We will be funding this work in London at the Royal Free Hospital and in Boston, Massachusetts, USA, and in New York at Sloan Kettering, delivering these new, fully approved treatments, to the world.

For more information on PDT and how it works, please go to the KILLING Cancer website - just click on the logo below. You can also find out where PDT trials are taking place.

You can also donate online or by post. If you can spare as little as £10 or $20, you'll be helping us to reach our goal. Your goal. We will do it.

If you can, please email this file to all the friends in your email address book - everywhere around the world.

Thank you. Love from Jenny.
